Whilst it is preferable that people attend the full tour, those who are unable to arrange the time for the full tour are welcome to go on the short tour. This year, the short tour will leave on December 17th or 18th. Airline bookings look difficult, and must be made as soon as possible. It will be much easier to cancel than to find a vacancy later.
To book a place on short tour, please contact Bevian Pearce at Burwood - 02 747 4835.

"If the Great Spirit had desired me to be a white man he would have made me so in the first place. He put in your heart certain wishes and plans, and in my heart he put other different desires. Each man is good in His sight.

It is not necessary for eagles to be crows."

THE WEST AUSTRALIAN WEDNESDAY JULY 5 1995

Baverstock wins solar centre deal

SOUTH Perth architect Garry Baverstock has won the contract to design WA's international solar science centre which will showcase the latest in Australian renewable energy technologies.

Mr Baverstock, whose solar-designed building with sail-like photovoltaic panels and energy tower was chosen ahead of three other shortlisted entrants, said 20 years ago there was virtually no interest in energy efficient, solar-designed buildings.

"It's great to see a lot of architects now taking these ideas on board," he said at the announcement on Monday as part of WA Architecture Week.

"The architectural profession is a leader in this area and can make things happen in the next 20 years. A lot of people in government are well aware we have to save energy in buildings in light of our national commitment to reducing greenhouse gases."

The winning design for the new Centre for the Application of Solar Energy, CASE, took a five-member team from Baverstock Associates six weeks to complete.

CASE is a joint initiative of the State and Federal governments and the United Nations Industrial Development Organisation, which chose WA as its international headquarters.

The solar research and development centre was also expected to boost WA's reputation as a centre for the commercialisation of solar energy technologies in Australia.

The CASE building, which Mr Baverstock said would cost an estimated $1.5 million, would be orientated north to take advantage of winter sun conditions, recycle its own wastes and include roof-mounted solar air collectors, double-glazed windows and solar pergolas.

The building, which will house a permanent workforce of 20 people probably at Murdoch University, will achieve energy savings of up to 80 per cent compared with conventional buildings.

Songs of Songs

O holy virgin! clad in purest white.

Unlock heav'n's golden gates, and issue forth;

Awake the dawn that sleeps in heaven; let light

Rise from the chambers of the east, and bring

The honied dew that cometh on waking day.

O radiant morning, salute the sun,

Rouz'd like a huntsman to the chace; and, with

Thy buskin'd feet, appear upon our hills
